REFUSES TO MAKE A SUNDAY SCHOOL OF POLICEMEN

"We are not going to turn our policemen into Sunday school teachers," said Judge Uhlir in morals court today when police sergeants complained because the judge would not convict Pauline Freeman on a charge of soliciting.

"But she said 'hello' to a strange man she met on S. State street," insisted the police officer.

"Maybe she did," said Judge Uhlir, "but if we arrest every girl for saying 'hello' to a man, won't we have a nice little Sunday school of Chicago. Anyway, it is Pauline's first offense, and I believe her last. Discharged."

"I never have nothin' to do wif men onless ma finances git so low there ain't no other way 'round it, judge," said Marie Halbert, arrested by Serg't Chambers in raid on Minnie Jackson's flat, 2956 S. State. Marie is colored. Case continued pending physical examination.
